RE: Information Request Letter for the Carson River Mercury Superfund Site
Lyon, Storey, Washoe and Churchill Counties and the Municipality of Carson City, Nevada

Dear Ms. Murratore,

Please accept this as Wells Fargo & Co.'s formal response to the Information Request letter for the Carson River Mercury Superfund Site sent by Kathi Moore to John Stumpf of Wells Fargo. Initially, Wells Fargo objects to the Information Request as overly broad, not expected to lead to admissible evidence, not warranted by existing laws, overly burdensome, relating to matters for which the applicable statute of limitations has expired, and directed to the wrong legal entity. However, without waiving these, and any other applicable objections, allow me to provide you the following.

By way of information:

- In November, 1875, the Nevada Bank of San Francisco nationalized and changed its name to the Nevada National Bank of San Francisco which it was until April 22, 1905;
- That bank then merged with Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Bank, San Francisco on April 22, 1905, and became the Wells Fargo Nevada National Bank;
- The Bank then merged with the Union Trust Company of San Francisco on December 31, 1923;
- On December 20, 1954, the Wells Fargo Bank and the Union Trust Co. changed its name to simply, Wells Fargo Bank;
- On March 25, 1960, the Bank merged with American Trust Co. to become Wells Fargo Bank American Trust Co.;
- On January 31, 1962, the Bank changed its name again to just Wells Fargo Bank; and
- On February 28, 1969, Wells Fargo Bank became a national association with the current name, Wells Fargo Bank, National Association.

So the actual successor to Nevada Bank of San Francisco is Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., not Wells Fargo & Co., which is the parent company.

The date range of the records you are seeking places them at well over 100 years old, if they existed, and so there are very few documents still remaining that are responsive to your request. Nonetheless, Wells Fargo does maintain some historic archives, and we did a thorough search of those archives, as well as an exhaustive review of the subject Bank's Board Meeting Minutes, for the period in question for any documents relating in any way to the metallurgical mills and silver mines.

Together we'll go far named in your request, and we were able to locate the enclosed records that mention those mills and/or mines.

Please contact me if you have further questions or want to discuss anything further with Wells Fargo. My direct dial is 612-667-3971.

Very truly yours,

Gary A. Heck
Senior Company Counsel
